2 Hancock deputies injured in collision with Bay fire truck

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
A Hancock County Sheriff's patrol car and a Bay St. Louis fire truck collided early Saturday morning at the intersection of Main and Second streets.

Two sheriff's deputies, John "Ed-die" Thornton, 41, and Kenneth Hurst, 40, were admitted to Hancock Medical Center from injuries sustained in the incident.

Thornton suffered broken ribs, a punctured lung and a possible fractured ankle, according to HMC Administrator Philip Wolfe.

He is in stable condition.

Hurst has a broken cheek bone and numerous abrasions and contusions. Firefighter Arthur J. Farve, 28, received a glancing blow to the head in the accident. He was treated and released at HMC.

The fire truck was traveling south on Main Street in response to a structure fire alarm on Beach Boulevard.

The patrol car was traveling west on Second Street to give assistance to Bay St. Louis police department who were responding to a burglary in progress call.

The vehicles apparently arrived at the intersection at the same time and neither yielded.

The accident is under investigation by the Mississippi State Highway patrol.

Staff Sgt. Hershel Ladner of the highway patrol is expected to be called on to reconstruct the scene of the accident, according to Joe Gazzo, highway patrol spokesman.

Gazzo said accident reconstruction is regular procedure when it is not clear what happened in a major accident.

State Trooper Glen Grice is in charge of the investigation.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz Jr. said he is very thankful that there were no more serious injuries sustained in the accident.

"This accident shows how dangerous working emergency services can be," he said.

Frankiewicz also said he was very proud of the actions of Bay firefighters following the accident as Michael Willumitis stayed on the scene to administer first aid and Louis E. Prendergast and Farve proceeded to answer the fire alarm.

The sheriff's patrol unit received extensive damages and the fire truck had a bent bumper and broken headlight.

The fire, in the upstairs apartment of Bay Cabinet Shop, was confined to one area.

Bay Fire Chief Andrew Lizana said the fire was started by a cigarette being dropped on a mattress.

The mattress was destroyed and there was smoke damage, he said. The burglary call was cancelled.

Kmart evacuated during brief fire in construction area

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Kmart in Waveland was closed briefly Friday afternoon while firefighters extinguished a blaze in a wall between two restrooms where construction work was in progress.

The store was evacuated around 3 p.m. when a torch ignited fumes of an adhesive glue being used to install tile board in a restroom in the back of the store.

Waveland Fire Chief David Garcia said the odds are really against this type of fire starting and previously he had only read about this type of ignition.

Garcia said there was no doubt ignition of the fumes was the cause of the fire because four construction workers had witnessed the fire.

He praised the quick thinking of these construction workers who used fire extinguishers on the blaze and enabled firefighters to contain the fire to that one area.

It appears that there are only minor damages but it could have been serious, Garcia said.

Kmart Assistant Manager Shirley Forrest Saturday morning said everything was back to normal and the back room was in operation again.

She also said evacuation following the fire alarm had been very orderly and the store had been evacuated for approximately 30 minutes to an hour.

Responding to the fire alarm were two Waveland pumper trucks, a salvage and overhaul truck and 13 Waveland firefighters.

A Bay St. Louis fire department also responded with a pumper truck and three firefighters.

Other volunteer firefighters assisted at the scene and the Diamondhead Fire Department was on call to assist if needed.

Garcia said all precautions necessary had been taken because the fire alarm had been sounded from a store in a shopping center.

Sanitation Department to issue septic tank installers licenses

By EDGAR H. PEREZ
The Mississippi State Board of Health sanitarians for Hancock County Thursday will issue licenses to commercial septic tank installers.

The licenses, required by a new state law which went into effect on Jan. 1, will be issued by Dick Aiken of Saucier, Health Department supervisor, and Tom Pope of Bay St. Louis, Hancock sanitarian, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the City-County Library, US-90, Bay St. Louis.

Aiken said applicants will be required to pass a 20-minute written test. Fee for the document is $25.

"This licensing, required in a bill passed by the 1987 Legislature, is designed to insure that septic tank installations conform to state standards," Aiken said.

The official noted the license is required only for persons who will be installing septic tanks as a business or profit-making sideline.

"Individuals may install tanks on their own property without a license as long as the installation conforms to state standards," Aiken noted.

He said further information on the license and the state installation standards may be obtained by calling the Sanitation Department at 567-4510.

STORE EVACUATED—Kmart in Waveland was evacuated for approximately an hour Friday afternoon while a fire in the wall between two restrooms was extinguished and firefighters worked to insure there were no "hot spots" or smoldering areas which might blaze up again. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

$20,000 approved for borings

County continues delay on Corps study funds

By DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors will wait for the results of borings taken from the floor of the Mississippi Sound before deciding whether to continue funding a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers shore protection study.

The county is participating on a 50-50 funding basis in hopes that the results of the study can be used to obtain an estimated $12 million in grant funds that will be necessary to repair about eight miles of the county's 12-mile shoreline.

The county paid $77,000 for the first year of the study and had originally been asked to pay $66,000 for the second year, about $121,000 increased to about $136,000 by in-kind contributions by the end of fiscal year 1988.

On Friday, Martin told the board that the study will be more expensive than originally anticipated and that the board would be asked to pay additional monies that would raise their required balance by about $40,000.

"When we began to get the data together that we'd developed, we were not too comfortable with the numbers we got and the method we used to get them," Martin explained.

He told the board that he feels the cost-benefit ratio of the study is not as good as he had expected.

The cost-benefit ratio was requested by the supervisors when they delayed action on the second year's funding several months ago.

The Corps representative said the study had already produced "an excellent survey of the beach and road" and the accompanying drainage situation and that the drawings had already been provided to the county engineer.

However, he added that "several things happened that changed the conditions under which we're doing this."

Martin said it has been decided that the Hancock County project will have to be based partially on previous storm damage and will have to include provisions for likelihood of additional damage, which is not usually included in such a study.

The Corps' Coastal Engineering Research Center in its Vicksburg District has therefore been asked to assist with the study.

That assistance will enable the Corps to provide a better structural design for a potential beach repair project, Martin explained.

At a previous meeting, the board had discussed the problem of where to obtain a proper grade of sand for beach replenishment. An existing analysis on the matter could not be found, Martin explained.

The board agreed Friday to add $20,000 to $20,000 already in a project account that is being administered by Gulf Regional Planning Commission.

The $40,000 is expected to cover the cost of offshore boring to see if the proper grade of sand can be obtained from the floor of the Mississippi Sound.

Martin said he feels the $40,000 will cover the borings and that to go on with the study while delaying the borings would result in a need to based cost figures on the "assumption" that the proper grade of sand is available locally.

He said the most recent test available are from 1966.

In addition, he added that to continue the study beyond that point would require an additional 18 months for completion.

He also explained to the supervisors that to do such a study with a private contractor would be much more expensive and that Corps approval would still be necessary to obtain federal funds.

Board President Ronald Cuevas

said the supervisors will take another look at continuing the study once the boring results are available, but added that if the study is continued, the process will still be a long-term commitment because applying for funding will take about two years.

The board meets again Jan. 29 at 9 a.m. in the upstairs boardroom of the Hancock County Courthouse, but is not expected to discuss the study on that date.

Concerned Citizens to host alternative school meeting

By DENA BISNETTE
Hancock County Concerned Citizens will ask local officials Tuesday to provide educational facilities for students who have dropped out of or been expelled from traditional schools.

Concerned Citizens President Geraldine Lang said her organization will host a meeting about the matter at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Hancock County Youth Court building.

Other public officials being invited include Hancock County Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph, Bay-Waveland Superintendent of Education Roger Oge' and School Board President Betty Diboll, Truant Officer Frank McNeil, Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr. and Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr.

In addition, State Representative J.P. Compretta has agreed to provide assistance if the group decides to pursue some action that would require legislation.

"The main issue we want to address is to keep these children off the streets," Lang said.

She explained that Concerned Citizens became aware of the problem when asked to look into a matter regarding a student expelled from school.

She said she personally would prefer to see some sort of alternative school provided for expelled students and students who drop out of regular institutions, rather than a home study course.

She also said emphasis should be placed on a regular high school diploma and not a GED.

Lang is currently in the process of doing research on an alternative school program being used in St. Louis, Mo., to see if a similar project would be appropriate for Hancock County.

She added that she hopes such a move will deter the development of ALTERNATIVE—Page 1A

Jehovah's Witnesses plan special meetings

A special week of activity is scheduled for the Bay St. Louis congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses Jan. 19-24 in connection with the visit of a special representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, according to Louis Tillman, a local minister.

The representative, John O. Mason, a circuit supervisor, has been involved in the ministry for the last 24 years.

Tuesday evening at 7 p.m., an abbreviated Ministry School and Service Meeting will precede Mason's first talk to the congregation.

Tillman further related that beginning Wednesday morning Mason will lead the local Witnesses in canvassing the area inviting others to the public talk to be held at the Kingdom Hall on Sunday at 10 a.m. entitled, "Persevering in Fine Works Brings Rewards."

This talk is being presented in all the congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses around the country during the next several months.

In case your home is missed by the Witnesses during the week, they would like you to know that all the meetings are open to the public and no collection will be taken.

'Praise the Lord' chronicles the rise and fall of Bakkers

Jim and Tammy Bakker lived their lives on television—from their beginnings in 1965 as the hosts of a Christian puppet show, through the runaway success of the PTL Club broadcasts and the defiant news conferences following the sex and money scandal that destroyed their Ministry in the spring of 1987.

Mississippi ETV will present a one-hour 'Frontline' special at 9 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 26, which examines the rise and fall of the Bakkers.

'Praise the Lord' examines the 22-year video history of Jim and Tammy Bakker.

"When I first met Jim and Tammy Bakker, they were two of the most open, congenial kids I ever met," remembers 'Uncle Henry' Harrison, the Bakker's former sidekick at PTL in 'Praise the Lord.' "In the early days, PTL was primarily soul-saving, but the program became more and more money-oriented, to the point where people called it a two-hour commercial."

Jim and Tammy Bakker both grew up poor and they quickly discovered the enormous power of television to raise money. Jim once described his method this way: "the way I raise funds is that I always have one or two things going all the time...either a crisis or a project...because people have to be motivated to give."

As PTL became rich, so did the

ARM AND SHOULDER PAIN

Neck strain from poor posture, or from an accident of some kind, can result in a variety of shoulder, arm or hand problems, with accompanying pain. The cause is often an irritation or "pinching" of the large nerves in the neck as they leave the spine and extend into the extremities. An understanding of these conditions can help you avoid problems and suffering.

'The Magic Place' offers learning 'magic' for five-year-olds

Mississippi ETV has a little magic up its sleeve.

A new series beginning in January aims to make the transition to first grade—and beyond—a little easier for young children by preparing them at the kindergarten level for the learning that will be taking place later in their lives.

"The Magic Place," Mississippi ETV's newest series, will be providing this learning enchantment for kindergarten children with the help of two inquisitive puppets called Kelly Turtle and Bear Facts, who are introduced in the series to a variety of situations and places that are intended to build a storehouse of experiences necessary for later learning.

Bear Facts and Kelly Turtle are joined by host Miss Mystery (Sherry Lynn Elkins), who magically transports the two puppets to many different and interesting places. With Miss Mystery as guide, Kelly Turtle and Bear Facts discover the magic of learning.

Special songs have been composed by Luigi Zaninelli with lyrics by Zaninelli and Rocky Madden to enhance the concepts being presented whether they are symbols, the five senses, transportation, plants, fun places to visit or planet Earth.

Each 15-minute program will also feature a special game to reinforce the information that was introduced in the program. The audience is encouraged to play along with Bear Facts and Kelly Turtle.

"The Magic Place," a production of Mississippi ETV, will air at 9:30 a.m., Wednesdays, beginning Jan. 27. Each lesson will be rebroadcast at 8:45 a.m., Thursdays. The series will be offered to other public television stations around the country for broadcast.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Jan. 4, 1987

Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

Something that has always impressed me personally is the feeling of genuine admiration and affection which Senator Stennis has attracted from people at all levels and stages on Capitol Hill. Folks back home no doubt know that he is highly esteemed by his colleagues in the Senate, but they seldom have an opportunity to know the impact he has on the other people with whom he comes in contact daily.

With that in mind, I thought you, and perhaps your readers, would enjoy reading the enclosed tribute to Senator Stennis which appeared recently in 'The Senate Sentinel,' the newspaper written and published by the young people who serve as pages in the Senate.

As you can tell by the comments of Brad Robideau, a high school junior from West Fargo, North Dakota, Senator Stennis does indeed send a strong message of leadership-in-action to the people who observe him daily from a close vantage point.

I think Brad's view of the Senator reflects the feelings of other pages and workers of all ages on Capitol Hill who have had an opportunity to know Senator Stennis during his forty-plus years here.

Please accept this slightly personal message as an expression of the appreciation and gratitude we all feel for you and your kindness through the past year, and as a pledge to do our best to serve you effectively in the new Year.

With all good wishes, I am

Sincerely,
Rex G. Buffington
Press Secretary to Senator John Stennis

Senator Stennis Retires

By Brad Robideau

A visitor to Russell 205 cannot help noticing all of the honors, awards and dedications that Senator John C. Stennis has received over the years. These are only an example of Senator Stennis' long and dedicated service to his state and his country. Last October, he announced his decision to not seek re-election to the Senate, thus ending a legacy of public services that spanned over forty years. Senator Stennis follows former Senator Carl Hayden of Arizona in second place for the longest term held in the Senate. After the Senate majority went to the Democrats, he was elected by acclamation, Senate President Pro-tempore on January 6, 1987.

John Cornelius Stennis was born on August 3, 1901 in Kemper County, Mississippi. After graduating from Mississippi State University, he got his law degree at the University of Virginia. He began his political career in 1928 when he was elected to the Mississippi House of Representatives. Senator Stennis also served as a district prosecuting attorney and a circuit court judge for ten years. Senator Stennis was elected to the United States Senate in a special election in 1947 to succeed Theo G. Bilbo. During the early part of his Senate career, Senator Stennis was considered as a possible presidential candidate or as a nominee for the United States Supreme Court by President Dwight Eisenhower. However, he always stated that he would rather serve Mississippi in the United States Senate.

Senator Stennis has always been a strong advocate of our nation's defense. He was chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee from 1969-1980, and he currently serves as the senior member of that committee. More importantly, he is chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, which delegates funds to the various government programs. Senator Stennis also chairs the Appropriations Subcommittee on Defense. As chairman of the Appropriations Committee, Senator Stennis is an ex-officio member on every subcommittee of Appropriations. During his tenure as a senator, he has participated in over 13,200 roll call votes.

Senator Stennis has had to face many obstacles in his lifetime. In 1973, he was shot by muggers outside his home and left on the sidewalk. He has had major heart surgery, and, in 1983, he suffered from pneumonia. In that same year, his wife of fifty-four years passed away. In addition, two years ago, his left leg was amputated due to a cancerous tumor. Although his life has been filled with hardships, he has never given up. Everyone should be inspired by Senator Stennis' strength, courage and determination.

The Senate will miss his warm and friendly smile each morning. The nation will miss his care and concern for our national defense, and Mississippi will miss a fine senator who helped his state become better and wealthier. Everyone should applaud his love of his state, of the Senate, and of his country. The legacy of Senator John C. Stennis will always live on. Senator Stennis, we thank you.

Mississippi Economic Council

REVISION BY AMENDMENT

The Legislature is back in session and one of the hottest topics is likely to be constitutional revision.

Almost all groups support some revision of the state's outdated constitution, with the difference of opinion coming on whether the document should be revised by amendment or by constitutional convention.

The Mississippi Economic Council, the state's largest organization of business, industrial and professional leaders, favors revision by amendment. Council leaders believe this is the most effective way of improving and modernizing the state constitution.

The public agrees.

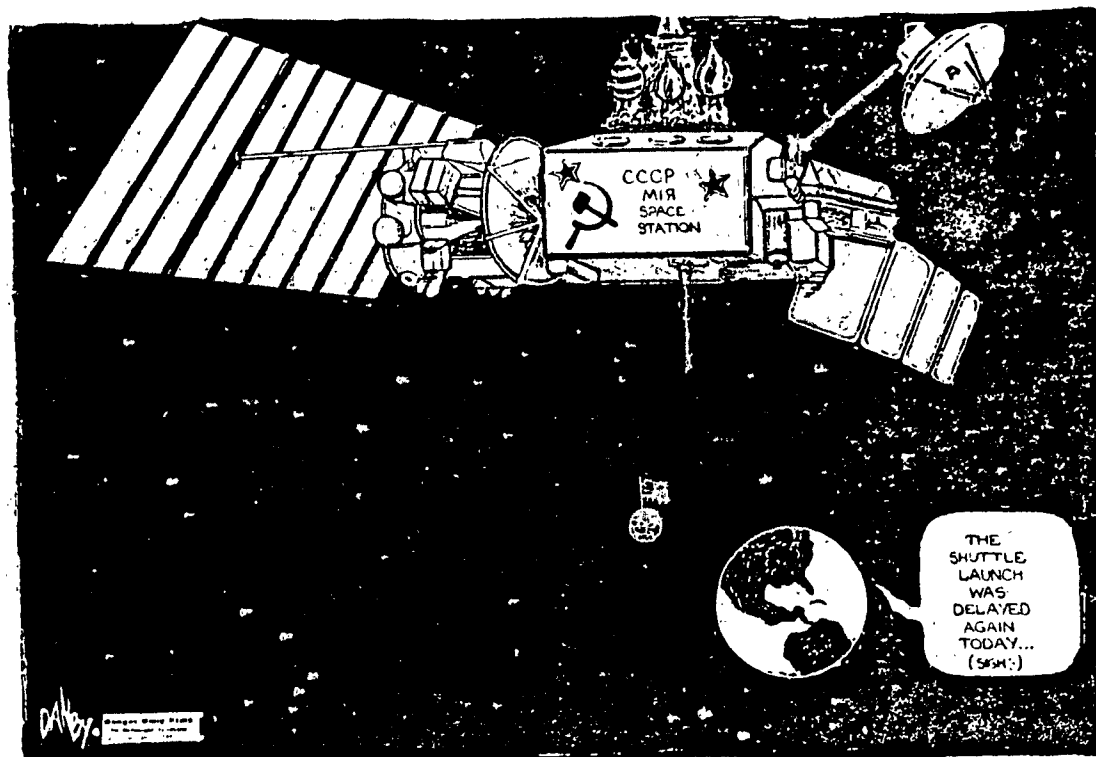

According to a poll commissioned by WLOX-TV in Biloxi and the Clarion Ledger/Jackson Daily News, 53 percent of those surveyed support constitutional revision and 56 percent think that revision should be accomplished by the amendment process.

Business leaders have studied the constitution thoroughly and are recommending specific amendments to the legislature. The Legislature's quick action on approving these amendments for voter referendum will ensure an efficient overhaul of the state document.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—Four years ago, Bill Allain came into the governor's office as a fleshy, battling former attorney general.

But this week he ended his four years as governor a lonely, defensive, enigmatic figure who seemed greatly relieved to give up a job he neither enjoyed nor really understood.

In his farewell to the Legislature last week, the 59-year-old Allain remarked that "leadership, like beauty, is in the eye of the beholder."

No doubt that was his parting shot at widespread criticism that Allain's administration has been devoid of leadership.

His view of leadership, Allain told the lawmakers, was not in twisting arms, promising jobs or making deals to get what he wanted.

Taking a hands-off role with the Legislature, he said, is really what separation of powers is all about.

But Allain, many believe, hid behind separation of powers at the cost of forfeiting the persuasive power of the governor to set the entire tone of the legislative and state government agenda.

Not to be forgotten, is that Allain used the governor's primary negative power—the veto—to register his opposition to legislative programs containing taxes to solve a teacher pay crisis in 1985 and a highway crisis in 1987.

In both cases, when the Legislature looked to Allain to provide a workable alternative plan, he was not forthcoming.

The adamant anti-tax stance that Allain assumed was not consistent with his original position that he would keep an open mind on taxes and would rely on a study of the tax structure by a private sector council appointed by him.

Yet, when the council came back with recommendations calling for plugging sales tax loopholes and raising the state income tax, Allain disregarded the council proposals.

His threatened veto of any tax measure in the 1986 legislative session forced lawmakers to make the deepest cuts in the state budget since the Great Depression, severely crippling many state services, including higher education and school textbook purchases.

Allain did seek to rectify some of those cuts a year later by calling a special legislative session which allocated some $30 million, including $10 million to university libraries.

Although he was always loathe to be compared to his predecessor, William Winter, Allain remained faithful to the full funding and implementation of Winter's prized Education Reform Act.

While some of his other appointments to state boards went sour, Allain made sure his appointments on the newly created State Board of Education were of the highest order. He took satisfaction last week in pointing out that test scores of students in several grades were above the national average.

For a one-time defender of the state's segregation laws, Allain seemed to go out of his way to see that blacks were well represented on boards and commissions to which he made appointments.

One of Allain's moments of history was his appointment of Reuben V. Anderson as the first black justice to sit on the state Supreme Court.

His record of appointing women to high-ranking state posts was applauded by women's organizations. Allain named the first woman as state banking commissioner, put the first woman on the State Tax Commission and the first woman on the Workers' Compensation Commission.

Historians someday when the state gets a new constitution will no doubt give Allain credit for significantly advancing the cause of constitutional reform by creating his 350-member constitutional study commission.

But his hope of making a new constitution the trophy of his administration never became a reality. Some would say it was another case of where Allain did not aggressively push the issue in the Legislature.

Perhaps the biggest irony was that gubernatorial succession, which Allain advocated, was passed by the Legislature without any real help from Allain.

Then, with the opportunity to become the first governor in state history to be elected to two successive terms, Allain chose not to run. Typically inscrutable, Allain, when asked last week why he did not seek re-election, answered: "I don't really know."

Every Thanksgiving and Christmas while he was governor, Allain, without a retinue or a battery of cameramen tagging along, pitched in at the Salvation Army Mission to serve food and wait on tables.

That side of him, a caring, compassionate person, is the way Bill Allain would like to be remembered.

Mississippi House Of Representatives

REPRESENTATIVE-ELECT
J. P. COMPRETTE

JACKSON, Miss.—The introduction of bills, assignment of committees and swearing-in of a new governor drew most of the attention during the second week of the 1988 legislative session as the Mississippi House of Representatives settled down to business.

An increase in legislative action was expected in the coming week, with newly appointed committees ready to start work on the massive stack of bills and resolutions awaiting consideration. This is an important step in the legislative process. It is the responsibility of the committees to study the various proposals, weigh the arguments for and against each measure, prepare amendments if needed, and then make a recommendation to the full House or Senate.

A combined total of more than 2,900 bills and resolutions were introduced last year in the two chambers. There were more than 225 introductions in the House alone by the end of last week, and the number continues to rise.

Any person or group can suggest legislation but all bills must be introduced by House or Senate members, including the measures recommended by Governor Ray Mabus.

Legislators assembled on the south side of the State Capitol for the new Governor's swearing-in ceremonies and inaugural address January 12. The oath of office was administered by Mississippi Chief Justice Roy Noble Lee. Stressing change and what he characterized as a "new beginning for Mississippi," the incoming Governor said he wants the legislative and executive branches of government to work together for "the sake of progress."

The Governor told lawmakers the task ahead will not be easy but added, "The only limitations we face are those we put on ourselves."

Committee appointments were announced in the House by Speaker Tim Ford, with assignments based on new criteria spelled out in some House rule changes taking effect this year.

In making the appointments, the Speaker said he sought to be fair, not be swayed by personal friendships, and to take "into account regions of the state, experience and talent, and a willingness to work."

The drafting of bills, committee functions, and legislative rules were among the topics discussed during a Short Course for Legislators in the House chambers. The program was sponsored by the Center for Public Service and Continuing Studies at the University of Mississippi.

The initial stack of bills introduced in the House includes proposals to require a county-unit system of road administration in all counties, allow district attorneys to help obtain restitution for bad checks, expand the Attorney General's powers to investigate white-collar crime, and provide for licensing of operators of off-road recreational motor vehicles.

A number of appropriation bills have been submitted, including a measure to increase the yearly allocation of funds for school districts in Chickasaw Cession counties in North Mississippi.

A statewide referendum on whether to allow a state lottery would be held under one of several proposed constitutional amendments pending in the House. Another House bill prepared for introduction would let people vote on the question of holding a constitutional convention.

Among the wide range of other legislation awaiting committee action are bills to abolish the office of county constable, provide for funding of the Mississippi Reading Improvement Program, a part of the Minimum Education Program, establish a Legislative Oversight Committee on the Environment, and designate the channel catfish as the state fish.

And that's only the beginning.

Corps' Vicksburg District schedules change of command

VICKSBURG—The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Vicksburg District has scheduled a change of command ceremony for the Vicksburg City Auditorium at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 20.

Colonel Francis (Frank) R. Skidmore will succeed Col. Pat M. Stevens. IV as commander and district engineer of one of the country's largest civil works districts.

The district encompasses seven major river basins, including a 270-mile reach of the Mississippi River from the Arkansas River to Old River, La., and the eastern watershed of the Pearl River in Hancock County.

It includes a 68,000 square-mile area of Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

District work includes flood control, navigation, recreation, and other areas of water resources development. The district's program also includes some military work, with design and construction responsibility for several Army Reserve centers in Mississippi.

Skidmore, a 1965 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, comes to the Vicksburg District from the Pentagon in Washington, D.C., where he served as Assistant to the Deputy for Plans and Programs, Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army (Research, Development and Acquisition).

He earned his master's degree in science from Stanford University in Palo Alto, California, and is a graduate of the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College and the National War College.

Skidmore served as battalion operations officer and executive officer of the 94th Engineer Combat Battalion (Heavy) in Darmstadt, Germany, and as military research associate, Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory, Livermore, California.

His other assignments included battalion commander of the 92nd Engineer Combat Battalion (Heavy), Fort Stewart, Georgia, and as staff officer and division chief of the Program Coordination Division, headquarters, U.S. Army, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Research, Development, and Acquisition, and Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army (Research, Development and Acquisition) at the Pentagon, Washington, D.C.

Stevens, who came to Vicksburg in July 1985, leaves the district to become Chief of Staff, Headquarters, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Washington, D.C.

A graduate of West Point, he served in the Corps' Middle East Division in Muscat, Oman, where he served as Oman Area Engineer.

He earned his masters degree in engineering from the University of California at Los Angeles, and is a graduate of the Army Command and General Staff College and the Army War College.

Stevens served in various positions at Fort Belvoir, Virginia. He served as commander of the 30th Engineer Battalion and became Officer in Charge of the April 1981 Mobility, Countermobility, and Survivability Systems Program Review at the Engineer School. He was later appointed Chief, Development Division, Directorate of Combat Developments.

He served two tours in Vietnam: the first with the 159th Engineer Group, and the second as advisor to the 61st Vietnamese Engineer Battalion.

Stevens' other assignments include Executive Officer, 1st Engineer Battalion, Fort Riley, Kansas; U.S. Exchange Student, Australian Army Staff College, Queensland, Australia; and Plans Officer in the Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff for Intelligence, Army Staff, Washington, D.C.

This change of command ceremony is the third of its kind for the Vicksburg District since the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers became a Major Army Command in 1979. The first ceremony was held June 28, 1982, when Col. Dennis J. York replaced Col. Samuel P. Collins.

On July 16, 1985, Stevens replaced York.

The custom of acknowledging a change in commanding officers of military units in a formal ceremony traces back at least to Roman times. It is almost certainly older, but its true origins are lost in prehistory.

The purpose of a change of command ceremony is to emphasize the continuity of leadership and unit identity despite changes in individual authority. The ceremony also symbolizes the transfer of command responsibility from one individual to another. This transfer is physically represented by the passing of the command flag, the tangible symbol of the unit, from the old commander to the new. The next higher commander traditionally performs the transfer.

EVERYTHING WOMEN ALWAYS WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT MALE SEXUALITY — (BUT WERE AFRAID TO ASK)

Wednesday, Jan. 20, 7:00 p.m.

Frequently, women ask the important questions about health matters when they notice changes in the sexual relationship and it is true that many husbands and lovers withdraw from their intimate relationships because of fears and misconceptions about sexual performance. At least 50% of couples have sexual concerns and we believe that women hold the key to sexual health in the modern loving relationship. Recovery of a satisfying relationship begins when the woman asks the question that, when answered, leads to a compassionate understanding of the problem. Help is available for the asking. In an educational program designed to help the process of sexual healing or relationship enhancement, the Sexual Medicine Institute of Southeast Louisiana will be asking and answering some of the major questions about male sexuality. Stephen Southern, Ed. D., Sex and Marital Therapy Consultant, will provide information about the physical and emotional changes that males experience. His discussion makes the complex responses of male sexuality easier for women to understand. Esteban O. Romano, M.D., and Mahmoud Dastary, M.D. Urologists will provide information about the anatomy and physiology of males and address questions on medical and surgical procedures for recovery of sexual functioning. FREE. PRE-REGISTRATION REQUIRED.

WOMEN AND HORMONES: UNDERSTANDING THE MYSTERIES

Wednesday, Jan. 20, 12:00 noon

A woman's body undergoes many physical and biochemical events and changes in a lifetime. It is known that the human body produces hormones that play a key role in how a woman feels. Your health is a responsibility shared by you and your doctor and as a woman's health specialist, OB/GYN's care for many health needs of women. Dr. Jason Collins, OB/GYN, will offer a presentation on women and hormones including a discussion on symptoms and effects of hormonal changes and hormone management. This discussion will explain what is known about the changes your body normally goes through each month, what variations you can expect, and when to be concerned. FREE. PRE-REGISTRATION REQUIRED.

Special Bay school board meeting to focus on upcoming evaluation

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District Board will discuss accreditation at a special meeting at 6 p.m. Monday.

The meeting will be conducted in the superintendent's boardroom at Bay Senior High School, Superintendent of Education Roger Oge said.

Oge said the meeting will include reports from principals at each of the district's four schools—North Bay Elementary, Waveland Elementary, Bay Junior High and Bay Senior High, as well as St. Rose Fifth Grade Center.

The reports will deal with the status of each school in regard to an evaluation visit scheduled in early February.

The evaluation is being made by educators from outside the school district in compliance with requirements of the Mississippi Education Reform Act.

"We have some problems, but we know what they are," said Oge, who added that most of the problems are facility-related and are expected to be corrected through the district's long-range building program.

The district has been complying with various accreditation standards by adopting new policies and working on a five-year education plan in compliance with State Department of Education Bulletin 171, which outlines the new standard, he added.

The five-year plan involves identifying the district's educational goals, its present strengths and weaknesses, and possible actions toward improvement and goal achievement.

The only other item on the meeting's tentative agenda Tuesday was a student discipline hearing rescheduled from a previous meeting, the superintendent added.

BaySide man charged in house burglary

BY DENA BISNETTE

An adult and a juvenile have been arrested in connection with a burglary at a BaySide Park residence.

Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Nathan Hoda Sr. said Simon Brown Jr., 19, a resident of Sunflower Street in BaySide Park was arrested and a juvenile was taken into custody Thursday.

Hoda said Brown was charged with burglary of a dwelling and a television set, stereo and a box of glassware were recovered.

Brown was being held on $1500 bond Friday afternoon.

The juvenile was turned over to Hancock County Youth Court authorities.

Hoda was assisted by Deputies Matt Karl and Greg Lichtenstein. The investigation is continuing with Hoda in charge.

Mississippi Department of Education announces summer food program

The Department of Education recently announced intent to administer the 1988 Summer Food Service Program for Children in Mississippi, through the Child Nutrition Program Division.

The Summer Food Program provides nutritious meals to children in needy areas during extended school vacation periods. In most areas, the program operates during June, July, and August. Under the program, meals and snacks are served to children 18 years of age and under to include certain handicapped persons of any age, in such places as schools, camps, playgrounds and parks etc.

Public or private, nonprofit schools and units of local, municipal, county or state governments may qualify as sponsors of the Summer Food Program in areas where at least 50 percent of the children are eligible for free or reduced price school lunches. Residential summer camps whose enrollment includes needy children may also act as program sponsors. Qualified sponsors are reimbursed for program operating and administrative expenses up to the current rates of reimbursement.

Sponsors will earn reimbursement for operating and administrative cost based on the number of meals served times the reimbursement rates for each meal type or the actual cost of the meals, whichever is less. Funding for this program is provided by the United States Department of Agriculture, Food and Nutrition Service.

To qualify for the Summer Food Service Program, a sponsor must meet certain requirements. The principal eligibility requirements include, but are not limited to the following:

1. Accept final financial and administrative responsibility for the total program operation.
2. Provide a regularly scheduled food service.
3. Serve meals that meet United States Department of Agriculture nutritional requirements.
4. Maintain adequate supervisory and operational personnel for overall monitoring and management.

Applicants for the Summer Program shall insure that the program is available to all eligible persons without regard to race, color, national origin, sex, or handicap.

Agencies interested in sponsoring the Summer Food Service Program should contact: Clarence Lovelady, Director, Division of Child Nutrition, Mississippi Department of Education, P.O. Box 771, Jackson, MS 39202, (601) 352-8480.

EUGENE O'NEILL

America's only Nobel Prize-winning playwright, Eugene O'Neill, is saluted when ETV's "American Playhouse" returns for its seventh season with a three-night showcase of the 1927 O'Neill drama "Strange Interlude."

PRM, Mississippi ETV to simulcast 'Turandot'

Franco Zeffirelli's production of Puccini's final opera, "Turandot," will be simulcast on PRM and Mississippi ETV Wednesday, Jan. 27, at 8 p.m.

Sung in Italian and subtitled in English, the program is the first presentation of the 1987-88 season of the "Live From The Met" series and was videotaped during the live performance at the Met on April 4, 1987.

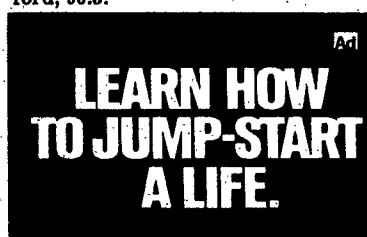

The cast features Eva Marton as Turandot and Plácido Domingo as Calaf, as well as Leona Mitchell, Paul Plishka and Hughes Cuenod.

Set in ancient Peking, "Turandot" is the exotic tale of the beautiful princess Turandot, who has rejected love and cruelly slays those who would try to win her.

Her suitors must answer three riddles; if they fail, they must accept the penalty of death. The Unknown Prince solves the riddles and captures Turandot, awakening her womanhood and her capacity for love.

To hear all the heights of love, despair and rapture, PRM listeners should tune their televisions to Mississippi ETV, turn the volume down, then tune their radios to PRM and turn their stereo volumes up.

Public Radio in Mississippi, a division of Mississippi ETV, is broadcast statewide on the following FM frequencies: Biloxi, 90.3; Booneville, 89.5; Bude, 88.9; Greenwood, 90.9; Jackson, 91.3; Meridian, 88.1; Mississippi State, 89.9; and Oxford, 90.3.

Yacht Club Auxiliary stages 14th annual Mystic Carnival Ball

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club staged its 14th Mystic Carnival Ball on Saturday, Jan. 9 in the club dining room at 8 p.m.

John Mason, the dynamic MC for the evening, welcomed members and guests to enjoy an evening of frolicking and fun.

Receiving with Auxiliary President Bobbie Goodell were Jane Benvenuti, first lady, guest of Commodore Peter Morrill; Theresa Bourgeois, wife of Vice-Commodore Randolph Bourgeois; and Nancy Uram, wife of Rear-Commodore Mark Uram.

The ladies were escorted into the ballroom and then assisted in the drawing of seven names from the queen's box which was presented to Captain Verna Brennan by Lake Caudin, lieutenant.

Co-Captains Patricia Lanham and Gloria Woods escorted the seven lucky ladies to encircle the King's cake made by the club baker, Luke Scianno.

The captain blows the whistle to start the music while the ladies hold hands and encircle the cake. When the music stops, each takes a piece of cake and leaves the room, hoping to return as queen.

Clowns and maskers entertain the guests until the royal court makes its entrance.

King Basil Kennedy entered first and was escorted around the ballroom by Captain Verna Brennan, greeting his loyal subjects, then returned to the throne to receive the dukes and maids of the royal court and his queen, Patricia Cucullu.

The king received his wife, Weezie, presenting her with a corsage, and Queen Patricia Cucullu received her spouse, Irwin Cucullu. The new king and queen then toasted 1987 King Peter Morrill and Queen Elizabeth Benvenuti.

Their Royal Majesties now descend the throne for the Grand March around the ballroom greeting their guests. The maids and dukes follow the procession and return to the throne, then proceed to have the court dance.

Bobbie Goodell presented Captain Verna Brennan with a gift from the auxiliary and thanked all the guests for attending the ball.

The planning and work of many helped make the ball so enjoyable. Floor chairmen were Russell Laham and Emmet Woods, assisted by Mr. John Eble, Dr. Morgan Lyons, Mr. Al Green and Mr. John Bredeen.

Court committee members were Mrs. John H. Cook Jr. (Marion), Mrs. Randolph Bourgeois (Theresa) and Mrs. L. L. Martin (Naomi). Mrs. Clifford Caudin (Lake) was in charge of the queen's box from which names of the prospective maids and queen were drawn.

Decorating the ballroom was in the capable hands of Mr. and Mrs. William Leapley, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Dressel, Mrs. Bobbie Goodell and Mrs. Billie Snider.

Music was provided by the Jokers and reservations for the ball were handled by Theresa Bourgeois and Bobbie Leapley.

Dukes and maids include Mrs. William (Bobbie) Goodell escorted by Commodore Walter Chamberlain; Mrs. Morgan (Joy) Lyons with Mr. Omer deBever; Mrs. Gerard (Dot) Hamann with Mr. D. Joy Burnett; Mrs. Noel (Lorraine) Dressel with Mr. Maurice Duplantier; Mrs. Algot (Alice) Green with Mr. Charles Kergosien and Mrs. Milford (Evelyn) Lady with Mr. Charles Heitcamp.

Clubs, Auxiliaries

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

On Thursday, Jan. 7 the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 held its regular monthly sing-a-long at the Hotel Reed Nursing and Retirement Home in spite of the inclement weather.

Mrs. Lena Mae Oustalet played, while Mrs. Roslyn Weathers led the singing, and Mrs. Oris Planchard encouraged the residents to join in the singing. We visited the residents during the activity and they were very happy to let us know the songs they enjoy hearing. Refreshments were served and a good time was had by all.

On Monday, Jan. 11, the regular monthly meeting of the auxiliary was held at 7:30 p.m. at the Legion Home.

Mrs. Mattie North, president, opened the meeting, and Mrs. Roslyn Weathers, chaplain, read the prayers. The color bearers, Mmes. Christie LaFontaine and Joyce Bernond advanced the colors after which the membership recited the Pledge of Allegiance followed by the Preamble. Mrs. Danita Scianna read the roll call of officers and then read the minutes of the previous meeting. Then the treasurer, Mrs. Anna Brehm, read the financial report.

Mrs. Scianna read the correspondence which had accumulated since the last meeting, and there were many thank-you notes from the various groups that we sponsor and help at intervals. The various committees were asked to give their reports and Mrs. Hazel Wohlschlegel, chairlady, VACS, reminded the membership of the picnic to be given on Wednesday, Jan. 20, possibly in the recreation hall for the veterans because the weather may be too cold to take them out to the Farm.

Mrs. Weathers, community service chairlady, reported on the sing-a-long, the monthly birthday party, and the appreciation of the residents for the services we do for the Hotel Reed Nursing and Retirement Home.

Mrs. Phyllis Moran, who is also our state president, as well as a member of our unit, spoke on the conference held recently in Greenville and of the many projects to be done in the new year.

Our national president, Mrs. Pearl Behrend, will be visiting the auxiliaries in Jackson this weekend and would like to see as many of the membership as possible.

There are many of our members who are ill and recuperating from illnesses and to them we offer our prayers and best wishes for a speedy recovery.

Women in Construction

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Chapter of the National Association of Women in Construction (NAWIC) will meet at the Holiday Inn, US-90, Biloxi on Monday, Jan. 18 at 6 p.m.

Speaker will be Mr. Charles Ballard Jr., chief of benefits for Mississippi Employment Security Commission. He will discuss 'Employers' Rights and Responsibilities,' and update on pending legislation concerning unemployment compensation.

Any woman actively employed in any phase of the construction industry is eligible for membership in NAWIC and welcome to attend the meeting. For more information call Jane Dennis, 832-9820 or Clare Topmiller, 388-8036.

AARP

The local Hancock County Chapter No. 1114 of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) will feature Mr. John C. Hughes of the Mississippi Foundation for Medical Care as its guest speaker on Monday, Jan. 18.

Mr. Hughes' topic will be 'Knowing and Understanding Your Rights Under the New Medicare Payment System,' according to Donald Mauffray, first vice president of the local chapter.

The meeting starts at 10 a.m. at the American Legion Post No. 77 on Coleman Ave. in Waveland. Refreshments will be served and all members are urged to attend.

Pass Christian Garden Club

At their meeting, Thursday, Jan. 7, Mrs. Robert Doe, president called the meeting to order at 11 a.m. Minutes of the previous meeting were read, treasurer's report and reports on all committees were given.

Mrs. Thomas Shea, committee chairman on birds, reported counting approximately 28 different species of birds in her back yard in the past month. She suggested that bird feeders and water containers be placed in yards so that birds may get food and water during the very cold days ahead.

Mrs. Ann Campbell spoke on the Stop the Dump issue, which will effect all citizens along the Gulf Coast now and in later years. The permit board has voted to grant Waste Management permission to use land near the Dubuissou community as a large waste dump.

If this issue goes through, other states' waste may be barged into this area. Citizens along the Gulf Coast are being asked to help defeat this issue by attending meetings and by giving contributions.

Mrs. Donald Newcomb gave a very interesting talk on her involvement with the Wild Animal Rehabilitation and Nature Preservation Society, to help injured wild animals and birds back to health so they can be released back into their wild environment.

Mrs. Tony Heibel reminded members to attend the Flower Show Workshop Jan. 14, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 3 p.m. in the Hancock Bank Civic Center. This is a very important workshop, as it will help members in making flower arrangements for the show.

After the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. C. R. Gallagher Jr. and Mrs. Kenneth Newton along with their co-hostesses.

Next business meeting will be Feb. 4 at 11 a.m. in the Hancock Bank Civic Center.

Hancock Women's Club

The Hancock Women's Club met at the Waveland Library on Thursday, Jan. 14 with Lois Cripple presiding. There were 26 members present, including a new member, Ethel Crowley.

Cripple announced that the club had purchased and wrapped Christmas gifts for 31 needy children whose names had been obtained from the Kmart tree, for which $325 had been appropriated.

Also announced was that the Hancock County Adult Literacy Program (ALITE), with the assistance of the First Assembly of God Church, would be holding a three-hour workshop for tutors on Saturday, Jan. 30 at the Trinity Christian Academy on Arnold Street, Waveland, next to the church. This program is headed locally by Helene Roth and is of much interest to the Hancock Women's Club, which has made a donation for purchase of handbooks and supplies, and several of whose members wish to become tutors.

The membership voted to donate $100 each to Hancock Industries, the Salvation Army, and the American Red Cross for use in Hancock County.

The nominating committee offered a slate of officers for next year, which will be voted upon at the next meeting. They are Lois Cripple for president, Marie Braselman for vice-president, Theda Fischer, secretary, and June Lasker, treasurer.

Norma Dyer has taken over the duties of hospitality chairman. She and Shirley Jones provided refreshments for the meeting.

Each member presented her New Year's resolutions, hopefully striving for personal betterment and improved club activity.

The door prize was won by Vickie Becker.

Fun and Games Day will be Wednesday, Jan. 27 at 11 a.m. at the home of Ruth Gallagher, 332 Terrace Street, Waveland. Bag lunches will be sold. This month's activity will be the game of Po-Ke-No.

The next regular meeting will be held at the home of Julia Loup, 620 Central Ave., Waveland on Thursday, Feb. 11 at 11 a.m. Lunch will be served.

SEARCH FOR JUSTICE

Our highest court ultimately determined the fate. Sandra Lockett in her fight for freedom from death row; Norma "Jane Roe" McCorvey in her battle for the right to an abortion; and Ada Lois Sipuel in her struggle for admission to the all-white University of Oklahoma used the U.S. Constitution to help shape the current legal system in the United States.

The tears, fears and the opinions of these Americans and others whose lives have been deeply affected by the Supreme Court's decisions are featured in a new ETV one-hour special, "Searching for Justice."

Hosted by journalist Carl T. Rowan, "Searching for Justice" features a rare and candid interview with former Justice Thurgood Marshall when it airs at 10 p.m., Monday, Jan. 25, on Mississippi ETV.

WAKE UP YOUR WALLS

There are two ways to think about walls. With the coatrack approach, the walls stand ready to hold whatever items you put on display. Another approach is to totally integrate walls into your decorating scheme. Creative thinking and planning, plus a wide variety of products will perk up any dull wall area.

Determine the function and mood of the room when selecting wall treatments. In seldom used rooms, such as foyers, bathrooms or guest rooms, you can use stronger, more dramatic treatments that cut down on the sun's glare.

Room size is important. Wide expanses of wall space can take strong patterns. Small patterns can look lost in a large room but be just right in a small room. If you have few furnishings, fill the room with a strong wall pattern. Wallpaper and fabric usually can take the place of wall hangings. If you already have a good collection of wall hangings, keep the wall treatment simple.

When choosing colors, always choose fabric and wall coverings first. Mix paint to whatever shade you need. When choosing fabric, wallpaper or paint colors, look at a large color sample in the area where you plan to use the color.

Study it both in daylight and at night. Does the color or texture change in different lighting? How does it affect the surrounding colors? Remember that the larger the area, the more intensive the color will seem.

Nothing else covers as much surface and creates as much interest and color for as little money as paint. Save money by buying quality paint when its on sale. Then do the work yourself.

Use the conservative approach and paint the walls an attractive background color for your furnishings, be creative by painting one wall a contrasting color or by painting walls, floor and trim to match. Other creative approaches could be the use of simple graphics and murals.

Any form of wall covering probably will cost more than paint. Often, however, it's an investment that pays off in good looks, long wear and low upkeep. It makes a bigger change in texture and pattern than paint and solves those wall problems that even spackling and paint won't cure. Try these cover-up cures for problem walls.

► Cover with cloth. Keep the price to a minimum by using sheets, burlap or remnants. Attach with a staple gun, fabric glue or double-faced masking tape, or hang it from a rod similar to draperies. For a super-coordinated look, match wall and drapery fabrics. For a country look, cover the seams with wood molding or molded plastic beams that look like wood.

► Panel them over. Use wood, thin cork sheets or mirrored squares. The investment in labor and money may be high, but the treatment will last for many years.

► Screen them off. Whether fabric covered or inexpensive paper screens, larger room divider panels or wooden make-your-owns, screens draw your eye down and cover up what's behind.

The French cuisine has given the rest of the world many delicious dishes, some quite simple, some rather complicated and somewhat on the spectacular side—but one of the finest and most simple to prepare is French Onion Soup.

And what better fare these winter days than a steaming bowl of onion soup, with French bread and toasted cheese atop? That's the true:

SOUPE A L'OIGNON
AU FROMAGE
French Onion Soup
With Cheese

As to the cheese, there are differences of opinion—some soup cooks prefer Swiss, some Americans opt for Parmesan, others, especially down around the wharves in Marseilles, France, insist on Gruyere cheese—suit yourself and your tastebuds! At any rate:

3 cups thinly sliced onions

2 Tbsp. butter, olive oil or margarine

5 cups rich beef or poultry stock, or combination (or canned, if you must)

Dashes of pepper, hot pepper sauce to your taste, salt optional

6 or more slices French bread, oven dried, not toasted

6 slices Gruyere cheese

Saute the onions over quite low heat in the butter or margarine or oil until they are golden and caramelized, but not too brown, stirring occasionally when you think about it. (I prefer olive oil for this).

Add the stock—which you've heated—I forgot to tell you that—and seasonings as you wish, then simmer for 20 or so minutes.

Pour into individual flame-proof soup bowls, top each with bread slice, topped in turn with cheese, and run under the broiler until the cheese is all soft and bubbly and browning and all that! (Six servings.)

Some cooks like to gild the lily—the onion is a member of the lily family, believe it or not—by sprinkling additional cheese over just before serving. So do I!

Other cooks like to serve the soup in a tureen, placing the bread slices in the bowls before ladling the soup over, but I like it best the other way.

Some cooks sprinkle flour over the sauteed onions before adding the heated stock—I prefer the other version—but, you don't have to cook it my way, as long as I'm not coming to supper! (I didn't mean that, I'll be polite, I promise!)

For the "real" French Onion Soup—the "croutets"—while the soup is simmering, preheat your oven to 325 degrees, and bake the sliced French bread, as many slices as you want, on a baking sheet, for 15 minutes, lightly coating each side with olive oil, turning once, until the bread is fully dry and lightly browned. Or, you may just wish to toast the bread slices—it's up to you—and, if you're like me, you want more bread and more cheese till you've finished. Enjoy—Spring is bound to come—it
